

Day 8 – Literacy story problem

Today we are writing the problem of the story. Your main character might meet the villain at this point – exciting!

Here is Mrs Hale’s planning ideas.

Who is your villain and what do they want?

The villain should be the opposite of your hero. It doesn't have to be a person but could be a force of nature or a difficult task.

e.g. Can control the weather but uses the power to fuel their own greed.

Who is your villain? e.g. an evil wizard; a treacherous journey.

An old king who wants to rule over all people and keep all the benefits of magic to himself.

He is selfish, cruel and greedy.
